York. The price is 30 cents in cloth, or 20 cents in heavy boards.

The Great Step, by Rev. Maitland Alexander, D. D. Publishers, George H. Doran, New York. Price, fifty cents. "The great step" is joining the Church. This little volume is prepared especially for those who are contemplating taking this step. It is a plain, simple and helpful presentation of the meaning of and requirements for joining the Church, and there are some useful chapters on the communion service and the Christian life. It will be found very useful in training communion classes.

The Kingdom in History and Prophecy. By Lewis Sperry Shafer. Publishers, Fleming H. Revell Company, New York. Price, seventy-five cents. One who wishes to study prophecy with reference to the pre-millennial coming of Christ will find this volume very interesting.

The Book of Personal Work. By John T. Faris, D. D. Publishers, George H. Doran Company, New York. Price, $1.00. Personal work for the salvation of souls is very difficult for some people. Such persons will find wonderfully helpful suggestions in this book. It is filled with narratives of the way in which men have led others to the Saviour in the simplest and most natural way. Ministers and laymen will find these cases both inspiring and suggestive. It is a good book to own as especially a good book to lend to others.

The Church in the Highlands. By John Mackay, M. A. Publishers, George H. Doran Company, New York. Price, $1.50. This book is a most interesting and scholarly presentation of the history of the Church in the highlands of Scotland, covering the period from 563 to 1843 A. D. Beginning with the early days of the Gaelic Church in the days of Columba of Iona the author gives the narrative of the Church's life and experience down to the nineteenth century. He presents the subject in a way that makes it very attractive to the reader.

Words of This Life. By Rev. W. Mackintosh Mackay, B. D. Publishers, George H. Doran Company, New York. Price, $1.25. When a writer rings true on sin and the atonement we may feel sure he is right on other subjects of vital spiritual concern. And so we find the author of this volume of sermons. They show broad thoughtfulness and deep insight into spiritual truth. They will prove suggestive to preachers, and interesting and helpful to all readers, who love the old truths of the gospel.

The Confessions of a Hyphenated American. By Edward A. Steiner. Published by Fleming H. Revell Company, New York. Price, fifty cents.

The author is a naturalized American citizen of German birth. He resents the idea that the loyalty of foreign born citizens should be questioned simply because of their alien birth. He maintains for himself and many others, that as much as they may love their native lands, having cast in their lot with this country, and having received from it the blessings of liberty and property, this country is dearer to them than any other. It is interesting to see this question discussed by a former subject of the kaiser.

Preparedness. By William I. Hull, Ph. D. Publishers, Fleming H. Revell Company, New York, N. Y. Price, $1.25. This is a most interesting and valuable book. It deals with all the arguments in favor of military preparedness, shows its cost, which is enormous, and that no such preparedness will insure peace. Over against this militaristic plan he sets the pacific plan of this country, which has enabled America to abide at peace herself, and to do much to restore and keep the peace among the other nations of the world. One wishing information on this subject could scarcely find a better source than this volume.

Deaths

REV. W. H. GROVES.

In the death of the beloved Rev. William H. Groves, in his late home, "The Manse," at Gloucester Court House, Va., May 3, 1916, Gloucester county and the Presbyterian Church have sustained a great loss. He was a man wholly consecrated to the ministry. His big heart went out to the people in their troubles. He was a true and faithful friend, and greatly beloved.

Mr. Groves was born in Wilmington, N. C., December 15, 1846. He became a member of the Presbyterian Church in his early youth, in that city, under the ministry of the father of President Wilson. Early in the late Civil War he enlisted in the Confederate service, when only fifteen years old, in Company C, 60th Virginia Infantry, and served his country faithfully. He was a splendid soldier. For the last nine months of the struggle he was a prisoner. While a soldier he purposed, if God should spare his life and if it should be His will, to devote that life to Him in the sacred ministry.

When the war was over he worked for his support by day and studied until a late hour at night to acquire an education, always with the sacred ministry in view. God blessed his efforts and prospered the dedication of his heart and life by opening the way more and more before him as he pressed forward toward the ministry. Thus Davidson College opened to him, then Hampden-Sidney College and the Union Theological Seminary at Hampden-Sidney, from which he graduated in 1872. He likewise labored so that he could assist two brothers to some extent in their education. He married July 8, 1874, Miss Mary Gretter Wharton, daughter of Mr. J. C. Wharton, of Greensboro, N. C. He was ordained by the Abingdon Presbytery August 28, 1875. He was pastor at Marion, Va.; Fayetteville, Lynnvillie, Memorial, Tenn.; Vinton and Bethany, in Roanoke, Va.; Windy Cove, Millboro, Va.; Gloucester, Robins Neck and Severn churches in Gloucester county, Va., for the past sixteen and a half years.

Mr. Groves coveted knowledge, so he labored in his student days and to the end of his life to have a mind well stored with valuable information to enrich his ministry, to the honor of his Master and for the benefit of the flock to which he ministered. The Book of books to his heart and mind was the holy Bible. Out of it he instructed the people as the Spirit gave him understanding and utterance. He was a most earnest and active preacher and pastor; he knew not how to spare himself in his holy zeal for the gospel and the welfare of his fellow beings. His faithful ministry in Gloucester, exercised under great difficulties and discouragements, will be remembered by all who knew and loved him. Above all he will be held in everlasting remembrance by his Saviour, whose loving and saving gospel he proclaimed.

Mr. Groves took a most active interest in everything pertaining to the honor and welfare of ex-Confederate soldiers. His heart and interest were nation-wide in things true and holy and of good report. He was a most enthusiastic and active member of the Yorktown Historical Society of the United States, and as chancellor of the society he contributed largely to the success of its recent annual meetings at Yorktown.

More than two years ago, under the pressure of an arduous ministry, his health failed. After a long illness he recovered sufficiently to resume his active ministry. About six months ago he again became sick. On the Sunday before Easter he preached in the church in Robins Neck, and on Easter in the churches at the Court House and in Saddlers Neck. These efforts were too great for his strength. Shortly his tired body fell on sleep, while his spirit returned to God, who gave it, to serve after the will of Christ, in his glorious presence.

A Man's Worth

depends upon his power to produce what the world recognizes as of value.

And when you skirmish around you'll find that this power—which is just power of mind and body—depends to a remarkable degree on the food one eats.

For highest accomplishment one must have the best values in food—food which builds well-balanced bodies and brains.

Grape-Nuts

has that kind of value. It contains all the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including the important mineral elements so often lacking in the usual dietary.

Grape-Nuts comes ready to eat, is easy to digest, nourishing, economical, wonderfully delicious—a help in building men of worth.

"There's a Reason"

The funeral services were held in the First Presbyterian church, at the Court House, by Rev. S. N. Hutcheson, D. D., First Presbyterian church of Norfolk, Va., assisted by the Revs. Folkes, Hudson, Corr and Lee. A large and sorrowing congregation filled the church to overflowing. The remains were afterward carried to Greensboro, N. C., for interment.

Mr. Groves is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter, Mr. William W. Groves, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Dr. Marion H. Groves, of Davenport, Ia.; Miss Julia W. Groves, of Gloucester, Va.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

God bless and comfort the bereaved family.

Wm. B. Lee.

Edwin F. Willis, Treasurer.
